SUMMARY

As a second-year doctoral student in Recreation, Sport, and Tourism (RST) with a zest for knowledge, focus on academic research, and classroom experiences, I pursue becoming a prolific researcher and a faculty in the long term. Particularly, I am interested in developing my teaching and research skills contributing to the RST scholarship and impacting the community. Specifically, I plan to research sports events through managerial and stakeholder lenses. Therefore, I intend to enhance my classroom teaching experiences to mentor and develop students for their academic success in the future while contributing to the RST literature.
